THE TOWN RECORD

By MONTE DAYTON

With all the wives doing the culinary chores, a whale of a feed was thrown preceding the more liquid ritual of bringing in the fresh year. In the wee hours of 1954, when all were ravenously hungry, remnants of the chow were brought out for buffet.

There was still enough food left the next day so the buffet was set out again.

Total cost to each party-timer was that of a couple of drinks.

If this innovation ever takes hold on a wide basis, the bar and restaurant owners will have to close up shop.

Considering the wholesale robbery some of them perform on their New Year's patrons, it would serve 'em right.

Once and for all, we're told politely, the classic local argument on whether the BELLI clan pronounces its name Bell-I, or Belly, has been settled.

MRS. ERNESTA BELLI, explaining that the contested word, in Italian, means good looking, or thereabouts, is our informant in this matter.

No Belli laughs, please.

MRS. LYDIA TALBOT, devoted reader of this publication, phones in this driving slogan for the new year: "As we drive merrily along the highways in 19 and 54, let's all try to make this a year of no hits, no runs, no errors."

Ha, caught you huh? Thought it was going to rhyme?

Anybody ever wondered if the decal of a bucking bull on the police office window had any deep significance?

Could be "bulls" — you know, cops.

Or else just plain "bull," as some irate citizens are given to believe.

Then again, maybe it's just a publicity stunt by the American Association of Dairymen.

Ho, Hum.

Question was, who was walking who, as Hal careened down Brunswick street, looking for the world that he was being dragged along by a couple of dray horses.

Hold Last Rites For Edward Olson

Daly City mourned the passing of Edward A. Olson, 60, of 231 Vista Grande avenue, and an employee of the Daly City water department for over 22 years, who passed away on Thursday, December 31, at the Kaiser Foundation hospital in Oakland.

For over 30 years Olson lived in

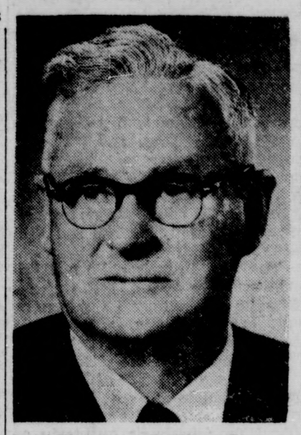
COUNTY MAPS PLANS FOR NORTH-END PARK



Thomas Callan Sr.
. . . Prospects for Park

The county board of supervisors Tuesday took under advisement possible acquisition of some 175 acres of land as a park site which would serve the Daly City area.

The area being considered for development into a park is near San Bruno, bounded by Junipero Serra boulevard and Sneath's lane.

The location has been described as ideal for a picnic-camping ground type park. Tentative plans also call for other facilities such as baseball diamond and horse shoe pits.

The supervisors have all gone in favor of the idea, but are awaiting recommendation from the county planning and recreation commissions.

Thomas Callan, supervisor from this district, was active in working for the north county park.

County appraisers are currently estimating value of the property. The land is owned by San Bruno Land company.

According to Callan, the park would be only approximately 10 minutes away from Daly City by auto. The area would also provide an ideal site for scout outings, he pointed out.

In other action Tuesday affecting the north county, the supervisors approved granting a card permit to Dick's Tower in Brisbane, despite opposition of some 50 ministers and towns people from that area and Supervisor Callan.

The vote was 3 to 1 in favor of granting the permit. Callan was the lone dissenter. Newly-appointed District Attorney Keith Sorensen also opposed granting the permit.

GO-AHEAD IS GIVEN ON POLICE EXPANSION

Re-vamping of the city hall to relieve the local police department's growing pains will begin sometime this month, city administrator Dan Andersen said yesterday.

The plan calls for the police department to take over the entire east side of the city hall, now occupied by the police, water and building departments.

At present the police are operating from a 15' x 18' cubicle at the northeast end of the building.

The police commission, to achieve the maximum efficiency in police operation and provide the much-needed "elbow" room, devised the plan.

Andersen said the water department would be moved by February 1. Tentative plans call for the water department to take up offices in the old Waxman bakery building at the top of the hill.

Andersen said the city's desire was to locate the department where it would be most accessible.

The building inspector will also move in the new water offices, while the water superintendent will be situated at the Citrus avenue pump house.

The set-up also calls for the three local banks to act as collectors for water bills.

Andersen said details of this arrangement and a location for the water office would have to be worked out this week. He is scheduled to make his report on the matter to the city council Monday night.

The banks will probably take in the bills on a fee basis, he said.

CITY BACKS HOPMAN'S DECISION ON BUILDING

After visiting 416 Santa Barbara avenue, target for heated controversy at last week's council meeting, the members of the city council were of the general opinion that neighbors charges of negligent building practices were unfounded.

Neighbors in the area claimed that the building was delapidated and should have never been granted a building permit. Direct charges were that the foundation was unsafe.

Owner of the building, H. R. Miller, 279 Irvington street, is currently remodeling the building and installing a third floor.

However, according to George Hopman, building inspector who received the brunt of last week's charges, Miller has no permit to use the third floor of the apartment dwelling for occupancy.

Councilmen said they would uphold Hopman's stand that the structure complied with the local building code.

Councilman Paul Green said he went along with Hopman's decision, as long as Miller didn't use the third floor for residences.

"Apparently the charges are unwarranted," he added.

NEW INDUSTRY SEEKS DALY CITY LOCATION

Possibility of a national candy manufacturing concern locating a plant here was revealed this week when application was made to the planning commission for rezoning of certain lands for light-industrial purposes.

Identified only as a "candy manufacturing company of a national concern," the business seeks to re-zone Lot 10, Block 5 in the Schoolhouse Extension tract and the northerly 30 feet of Lot 9, Block 5 in the Schoolhouse Land tract from C-1 to I-1, light industry.

The property is on the corner of Station and School streets on the east side of the railroad tracks.

The planning commission will consider the application at their Tuesday night meeting. According to a spokesman for the company, they will hire 50 or 60 persons at the plant.

Application for the re-zoning was submitted by Eleanor and Edward Garibaldi, 1 Cliffside drive.

Also topping Tuesday's agenda will be a public hearing on re-

GRAND JURY ON TAX COLLECTION

Proposal That County Collect Local Money Not Greeted Favorably

The county grand jury's suggestion that municipalities have the county collect their taxes will probably not be greeted with much enthusiasm here, it was learned this week.

According to the jury's final report submitted last week, cities should use the county's assessing and tax-collecting machinery where possible to save city funds.

However, under Daly City's set-up, the city clerk acts as tax assessor and tax collector ex-officio. City Administrator Dan Andersen said the city clerk's staff of three might be reduced by one if the county collected local taxes.

Tnis saving of approximately $3000 would probably be off-set by increased county taxes, he pointed out. If the county took over the job of collecting all municipal taxes it would appear imminent that size of the assessor's staff would have to be increased.

Another drawback of the plan is that it would reduce city services available to citizens at the local city hall.

LOCAL MAN PASSES STATE BAR EXAM; TO PRACTICE HERE

Mel Dykman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dykman, 196 Wellington avenue, was one of the 56 law students from Hastings College of Law to pass the October state bar exam, according to results released this week.

Dykman will become part of a legal firm along with Frank Blum, city attorney, and Thomas B. Gallen. Dykman has been in Gallen's legal office during the past two months. The firm's offices are located at 6454 Mission street, Daly City, and 1095 Market street, San Francisco.

A total of 66.7 per cent of the Hastings graduates passed the bar exam. Throughout the state, 509 of the 879 individuals taking the test were successful.

Dykman was graduated from Jefferson Union High school, where he was active in sports. He also sold newspapers on top of the hill for many years, and was at one time advertising and circulation manager for THE RECORD.

From 1942 to '45 he served as a staff sergeant in intelligence with the armed forces in China.

In 1950 he was graduated from University of California with a bachelor of science degree. He received his LLB degree from Hastings in 1953.

He now resides at 5347 Geary boulevard in San Francisco.

ADAGE PAYS OFF; MAN RETURNS TO SCENE OF CRIME

The old adage about the culprit always returning to the scene of the crime held true this week in the case of John Patrick Kelly, 22, a laborer who had earlier broken into Dino's Smoke Shop, 6236 Mission, and Breuer's Doughnut Shop, 6208 Mission.

Kelly, who gave his address as Mission hotel, San Francisco, was picked up by police this week playing the pin-ball machine at Dino's,

Brunswick Low, Low Bidders Ask Figure Be Rejected By City

Seems that the Bernal Construction company's $9935 low bid on construction of new Brunswick street retaining walls was all a mistake.

Last week the company submitted that figure for the job, and were low bidders by more than $14,000. They were also more than $7000 under the engineer's estimate.

Monday a representative of the firm appeared before the city council asking that the Bernal bid be rejected.

On item No. 1 of the bid, the representative said, estimate of cost for 90 yards of concrete, instead of the correct figure, 290, was submitted. This resulted in a monetary error of $7045 in the total.

This would have brought their bid to $16,980, still making it low by several thousand dollars.

But whether the company can be forced to do the work for this figure is a legal question, according to Frank Blum, city attorney.

He said that probably all of the bids would have to be rejected and advertising for bids would have to be repeated.

Attendance For Recreation Center Hits All-Time High

A balmy December and use of the community center combined to make last month's attendance at local recreation facilities hit an all-time high.

According to Recreation Director James Mason, a total of 17,748 persons took part in supervised programs for the month of December.

Previous high month's record was August of last summer, when 16,000 turned out.

Factors contributing to the heavy turnout was the summer-like December weather and the fact that this is the first winter that the community center has been fully utilized.

Also playing an important part in the record-breaking month were the Christmas parties at local theaters, which drew 3000 children.

Activities of the more than 17,000 persons were supervised by the recreation staff of 14 workers.

Attendance breakdown at the various recreation sites showed: Community center, 6797; Marchbanks park, 3708; Lincoln playground, 1858; Concordia (Frankfort) park, 910; Edgewood playground, 869; Niantic playground, 406; Christmas parties, 3000.

New Year's Quiet; Minor Hurts For Child Hit By Car

Four-year-old Robert Banos, 344 San Diego avenue, received superficial injuries over the holidays when he was struck by a car driven by Alphonse A. Guzlas, 36, of 268 Westlake avenue.

Guzlas, who was proceeding south on San Diego avenue Thursday, said the child jumped in front of the car.

The youth, after being hit, ran to the basement of his home and was later taken to Junipero Serra hospital for treatment of bruises.

Police said Guzlas was not at

POLITICS WILL TAKE LIMELIGHT IN SHORT TIME

Step right up, ladies and gentlemen, the show's about to begin.

Little more than a month remains until hopeful candidates may file for three city council positions.

Councilmen James Kennedy, A. J. Gaggero and Paul Green come up before the voters again April 13, and political watchers figure there'll be a king-sized roster to face the incumbents.

Candidates may begin filing February 13, and deadline is noon, March 4.

Any eligible voter who has been a resident of Daly City for 90 days and a resident of the state for a year may run for council.

The candidates must obtain a petition from the city clerk's office with signatures of 10 local registered voters attached.

For the voters, registration deadline is February 18. To vote in the coming municipal election a citizen must be a resident in the county 90 days.

Councilmen Edward Dennis and Joseph Verducci will not be on the ballot until 1956.

The three incumbents whose terms expire this April have not made any public announcement either denying or admitting their intention to run again. However, general belief is that all three will enter their names on the ballot come April.

Son Of Custodian Dies In Tree Fall

Burial rites at Golden Gate National cemetery will be held today (Friday) at 11:30 p.m. for Robert Charles Passafiume, 33, son of Stephen Passafiume, head custodian for the Jefferson elementary school district.

He was killed Tuesday afternoon near his home in Boulder Creek when he fell out of a tree in which he was attempting to install a television antenna.

Investigation showed that Passafiume had accidentally cut the rope holding him up in the tree when he attempted to cut a limb. He fell approximately 100 feet to the ground.

In addition to his father, the deceased is survived by his wife, Mary, and four children, Patricia, Robert, Thomas and Mary of Boulder Creek; two brothers, Stephen Passafiume of Oakland and Richard LeRoy Passafiume of San Francisco, and one sister, Petrina Reagan of San Leandro.

Expected Growth To Net Daly City $70,000

A special Daly City census that is expected to reveal a population increase in excess of 10,000 will be held in the third week of February, according to a letter forwarded to the city by the U. S. department of commerce this week.

City officials estimate the census will show a population here in excess of 25,000. Last decennial census, held in 1950, showed a population of 15,191. State tax moneys are currently allocated to Daly City on the basis of the 1950 figure.

The expected jump in population would result in the city receiving approximately $70,000 more annually in state subventions, motor vehicle, alcohol and other special tax moneys.

Cost of the census is estimated at between $2500 and $3000. According to experiences in similar size cities, for every additional person reported the city receives approximately $7 more annually in state allocations.

City Administrator Dan Andersen estimated that Daly City, within 10 years, would be the largest city in the county. The 25,000 figure would place Daly City as approximately fourth largest municipality in the county.

Higher Court Fines For Auto Violations Set By State Ruling

A state law that became operative January 1 means local vehicle code violators will pay higher fines and municipal court workers will have to scurry to figure out the bureaucratic allocation of the new revenue.

The law stipulates that for every $20 in fines paid for moving violations of the vehicle code the violator must pay an additional $1 which will go to a state fund. The money will be transmitted to the state for the purpose of financing driver education programs in the California high schools.

The state is expected to realize $15,000 annually from Judge Thomas L. Bocci's municipal court in South San Francisco alone, which serves the Daly City area.

All fines under $20 will also include the $1 lien. The extra $1 will be levied for any fraction of a fine over a multiple of $20.

For instance, if a drive is fined $23, he must pay $2 to the state fund. He would pay the same amount for a $40 fine, but when the figure got above $40, another $1 would be added.

At the municipal court, staff members are hard put to handle the increased bookwork occasioned by the new law, according to reports received by this paper.

No fine payers have contested the validity of the new law as yet, but there was some speculation that the occasion might arise.

BROADMOOR INFANT STRUCK BY TRUCK

A one-year-old Broadmoor child received a sprained ankle Wednesday when he was brushed by a milk-truck pulling away from the curb.

Taken to Junipero Serra hospital for treatment was David Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Adams, 744 Thornhill drive.

According to Broadmoor police, the child was standing next to the truck when it pulled away in low gear.

REC COMMISSION TO SELECT CENTER SITE

Establishing of a site for the $25,000 community center which Henry Doelger offered last week to build for the city will be discussed January 18 by the recreation commission.

The commissioners set that date at their regular meeting Monday night. They will consult with Mrs. Cecilia Mogensen, professional playground planner, and the city engineer, to iron out all the problems accompanying the project.

Details of the 10-acre park development in Westlake will also be worked out.

The commission heard a report Monday from August Conci, city gardener, on cost of landscaping and beautifying the community center. On original bids submitted for the job, low figure was $53,000. Conci said that the work is nearly completed and has cost only $14,500.

New Suit Arises On Brunswick Extension

NO TIPSY MOTORISTS NEW YEAR'S TRAFFIC

A total of 847 cars were stopped last week in a traffic check held for southbound traffic on Mission street in front of the high school.

No citations for drunken driving were issued to the pre-New Years drivers, but 60 mechanical defect notices were given.

The Brunswick street extension, most controversial and contested building project in Daly City, gained dubious distinction again this week as a $15,068.72 damage suit was levied against the city and former city engineer.

The Bragato Paving company, contractors on the job, ask that sum for work completed and for extra costs involved when the former city engineer, Robert Klassen, allegedly changed specifications for the job.

About half of the damage money is owed the company for work on the wall completed in Spring of 1952. The remainder is sought for additional work done when Klassen altered his plans after the job was nearly done, the suit claims.

The claimant is represented by the legal firm of Bacigalupi, Elkus and Salinger of San Francisco.

City Attorney Frank Blum said this week that negotiations might be made whereby a portion of the claim would be paid without taking the case to court.

He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth Olson, and is the father of Earl E., Samuel C., Shirley and Leona Olson, Mrs. Ruth Haughey, Mrs. Mildred M. Robbins, and the late Wallace W. Olson. He is the brother of Jessie Olson of Utah, Mrs. Hazel Thorne, and Mrs. Violet Brightnbaucher. He is also survived by five grandchildren.

Olson was a member of the Widows and Orphans Association of the Daly City fire department and the Veteran Firemens Association of Daly City.

Services were held on Monday, January 4, at the chapel of W. C. Lasswell Co. Interment followed at Cypress Lawn Memorial park.

On that occasion he raided Dino's for approximately $150 in cash and property.

Earlier, December 13, he broke into Breuer's and took about $175 cash. Police records showed that he had previously burglarized that establishment in June of 1952.

Due to Judge Thomas L. Bocci's being disposed with another case, Kelly was taken to San Mateo Tuesday where he appeared before Judge Fred Wyckoff, who sentenced him to six months in jail on each petty theft count. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Plan New Offices For Police Dept.

The expansion plan provides for a separate office for the chief of police. The present water department office will be utilized as the police reception room, where all clerical work will be handled.

The regular patrolmen's room will be what is now the police headquarters.

Cost of the move, according to Police Commissioner Tony Ricci, will be "negligible."

In addition, he pointed out, it will provide the police department adequate space for at least another five years.

zoning of certain property on Allemany street from R-3 to C-1. The land is between San Pedro road and Market street on Allemany, adjacent to the Altieri property, also up for re-classifying to C-1.

Final discussion on the Westlake Baptist church's plan for off-street parking at their proposed church site on Glenwood avenue in Westlake will also be held. The commission will make their official recommendation, to be forwarded to the council.

Application of Callan Realty Co. for re-zoning of Lots 20 through 27, Block 3, of the $75 Homestead tract from R-2 to C-1 will also be heard. Applicants seek the re-zoning on the basis that all adjacent property is now zoned commercial.

Antonio and Annie Vallerga, 144 Werner street, seek to have Lot 53, Block 4, Castle Homestead Tract, re-zoned from R-1 to R-3 for purposes of erecting apartment dwellings.

Their application will be heard Tuesday night.

The commissioners will also hold first reading of a proposed city subdivision ordinance Tuesday. A state law passed last year requires that all cities of sixth class or below must have such an ordinance.

Rec. Commission To Select Site

More than 50 varieties of plants, trees and shrubs have been planted on the center grounds. The commission commended Conci for the substantial savings he had made for the city. Approximately $350 worth of work remains to be done on the floral program at the center.

In other business Monday, the commission:

1. Turned down an offer by Norman Smiley, president of the Northern California Boxing Guild, to hold semi-pro boxing tournaments here once a month at the center. The commission said they would hold the matter up for further study.
2. Approved the fire department's request to use the center May 15 for their annual ball.
3. Set September 18 as date for a Lake Merced Post 9921, VFW, function.
4. Approved the holding a wedding reception at the center February 28.
5. Discussed the holding of county AA championship basketball tournaments here each Sunday. The matter was held over for further study.

Sale Of U.S. Bonds To Be Transferred From PO To Banks

Effective January 1, 1954, the sale of United States Savings Bonds at Post Offices will be transferred to banks serving San Francisco, announced Postmaster John F. Fixa today.

This is being done so that the Treasury Department can use established financial institutions in a more intensive Bond sales program. Local banks have long made this service available to anyone free of charge and will continue to serve patrons interested in purchasing bonds regardless of whether or not an account is maintained at the bank. Bonds also are on sale at many savings and loan associations.

The San Francisco Post Office will continue to sell U. S. Savings Stamps which may be converted into bonds when presented in the proper amount at local banks.

Annual Box Rental Now

Under a new order of the Postmaster General, Post Office Boxes may now be rented annually on a fiscal year basis or quarterly as the box holder elects.

Previously, post office box rent was payable on a quarterly basis. Under the new order all box holders may elect to pay their rent on a fiscal year basis or for one or more quarters remaining in the fiscal year.

No refund is made if box is surrendered before close of period for which payment is made.

THREE DC DRIVERS GIVEN SUSPENSIONS

Placed on probation with the department was Rosalie Peck, 21 Crestwood drive, apt. 19.

CITY PLANNING AND THE WHINERS

It's about time the community of Daly City began to face up to the facts about city planning.

Admittedly, as Daly City grew, there was scarce a mind that troubled itself about the science that today is known as city planning. For that very reason Daly City finds itself in a jackpot today amending the negligence that has preceeded this generation.

The city grew up in a piece meal development, without regard to order. If a hunk of property looked good to a prospective home builder, that was it—up went the house and the rest of the world be damned. The same individualistic philosophy was carried out in road building, or any other kind of development.

The result today is that Daly City must do the best with what it has. The local planning commission is the instrument that is attempting to do this repair job.

It is an axiom of municipal science that a city cannot remain financially healthy if the tax burden for providing countless services rests solely on the homeowners.

For this reason, it is necessary that some industry and commerce flourish within a community in order that the tax burden not strangle the home owner. A healthy division of residential and commercial areas results in a reciprocol agreement between the two. The residential area benefits from commerce's participation in paying for city services. At the same time the solvent community can provide the business with good labor, supplies and an adequate market.

In Daly City's case, it is difficult, geographically, to supply this commerce and industry with locations that will suit their needs.

However, the decisions are going to have to be made sometime, and the citizens may as well take cognizance of this fact.

To date, when any enterprise seeks to establish itself in Daly City, immediately the whines of a few home owners drown out the obvious good behind the action.

If Daly City is going to get out from under a confiscatory tax load, some downright honest action to attract industry here has got to be made.

As we have pointed out in earlier editorials, it shouldn't be on a "come hither, said the spider to the fly," basis.

Daly City has got to show the world of enterprise that we have something here to offer them besides the rantings of a few short-sighted persons who place personal covetousness above the best interests of the city.

Letters To The Editor

Gov. Knight Issues 1954 Proclamation To Make This Year California's Safest

Governor Goodwin J. Knight today issued 1954's first official Proclamation aimed at making the New Year the safest in California's history.

Pointing out the high rate of traffic and home accidents and fatalities in the state over the past years, the Governor called on all Californians to cooperate with the National Safety Council and other safety organizations in a concentrated effort to make every community in the state a safe place to live, work and play.

Copies of the Governor's Proclamation will be distributed to school children throughout the state. In addition, students will receive a California Motorists' Safety Pledge, and will be asked to present it to their parents. The Pledge, to be signed and returned to the Governor's office, states:

(1) My car far outweighs any pedestrian. I may be right, but I will always give him the right-of-way.

(2) Better to lose a minute than a life. I will drive at safe speeds and obey traffic laws.

(3) I am courteous to people in my home and at work. I shall practice that same courtesy on the highway.

(4) During 1954 I will drive as if the responsibility rests on me alone to make California the nation's safest state.

Legion Auxiliary Praised For Good Deeds

Society of St. Vincent de Paul
Our Lady of Perpetual Help Conference
93 Muirwood Drive
Daly City 25, Calif.

Dear Editor:

One of the outstanding organizations in community service in Daly City is the American Legion Auxiliary, Post 410. This group of wonderful ladies never fail to think of the less fortunate in our midst and to do something for them. Each Christmas they make a substantial contribution for use among needy families. Their concern for their less fortunate neighbors and their action to alleviate his condition is a real exposition of Christian charity. We salute these good ladies and express our gratitude for their timely assistance.

Yours truly,
John E. Colthurst,

My Mad World

By Leonore Brewer

Above the moans and groans uttered by many business groups at this time of year arise the jubilant cries of record companies. They've never had it so good, and indications point that next year will be better still. High Fidelity is riding the crest of a wave the like of which hasn't been seen since the Florida land boom. Millions of dollars are spent each year on classical records. What this writer would like to know is where do they go after they leave the record shop?

We feel that we have a speaking acquaintance with just about as many people as the next person, and during the past year and a half we have had a tenuous relationship with those whom, in an occasional moment of vanity, we like to term our "readers." We have even met some of you. During the idle chit-chat which occupies the time of casual acquaintances, we have seldom failed to bring up the subject of music, records, and occasionally have let drop the words "high fidelity." Each time we have eagerly waited for eyes to light up with enthusiasm. With only one exception we have waited in vain.

We have been criticized as having too limited a taste, insofar as music is concerned, because we specialize chiefly in opera. True, our collection is heavy on the operatic side, and Italian opera almost exclusively. We keep talking about beginning a Mozart wing or a modern wing, but a new Verdi or Bellini or Donizetti is issued, and all our resolutions vanish in a puff of talk, and "Don Giovanni," "Elektra" and Wozzeck" remain as far away as ever.

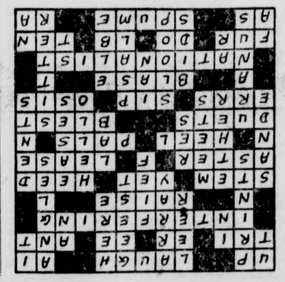
Perhaps you have searched this column week by week, honing that we will at least bow politely to Wagner, ballet music, symphonic works or some of the great individual artists of yesterday or today. It is even possible that our seeming lack of interest in many of the other phases of music has proved annoying. If so, just remember this basic economic fact—money goes just so far, and if you are collecting records it never goes far enough.

So we reach the point of today's column. A recording owned by one can be enjoyed by all. The only question is: where are they? Maybe you have them. Perhaps your collection is heavy on symphonies; perhaps you lean toward the French operas; perhaps you have the largest single collection of Luisa Tetrazzini recordings in this area. And perhaps you, too, have been criticized because your prime interest has crowded all but a sprinkling of other works off your shelves. You are interested in the others, but alas economic necessity forbids serious collection.

If you feel that your musical circle could be widened, I have had three or four ideas simmering on the back burner for some time. All I need to pull them up to the front and put a red hot fire under them is for you to call me at PLaza 5-2847. After six in the evening, please, and weekends, of course.

TIRE BLOW-OUT

When an automobile is overloaded, there is bound to be considerable flexing of the tires, particularly at high speeds. The California State Automobile Association points out that flexing and speed combine to create excessive heat which is usually the underlying cause of tire blow-outs.



In The Past

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO IN THE RECORD

Friday, Jan. 6, 1939—John Matzek, 20-year resident of Daly City and manager of the H. H. Smith Lumber yards, was appointed to a San Mateo county road foreman post Tuesday.

Matzek has had previous road engineering experience in construction and maintenance. Immediately after the World War in which he served as a United States soldier, Matzek was engaged in road work in the vicinity of Santa Cruz.

H. H. Smith Jr. will take over Matzek's responsibilities as manager of the local lumber yards.

Carl E. Newman, manager of the Daly City branch of Bank of America, sees in 1939 a year of steady business improvement for the entire Bay Area.

"Our branch has shared in the splendid progress which the entire Bank of America organization has made in 1939, which progress is indicated by the bank's statement of condition at the close of the year," he said.

"A. P. Giannini has often said, 'You can't keep California back.' His words are equally true as applied to our own community for 1939."

Ida May Lasswell, Luella Pepper and Bert Lasswell of Lasswell & Co., local mortuary, were reappointed this week as deputy coroners.

In naming the local deputies, County Coroner William Crosby declared, "I have acted to organize an efficient staff which will give the county the utmost service."

TWENTY YEARS AGO IN THE RECORD

Friday, Jan. 5, 1934—A group of relatives entertained at a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Anna Witt and daughter, Florence, of 211 Broderick street, San Francisco, last Friday evening, the occasion being a surprise miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Hilda Witt, who recently announced her engagement to Edward Dennis of Colma.

Miss Witt received many beautiful and useful gifts. Words of congratulations were expressed by all present. Dainty refreshments were served at midnight to the following: Miss Hilda Witt, Edward Dennis, Mrs. Anna Witt, Miss Florence Witt, Jack Witt, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hildebrandt, Fred Hildebrandt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brauer, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Witt, Mr. Claus Witt, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Heltmann, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Witt Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ehling, Mr. and Mrs. George Olmo, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Witt, Miss M. Bearman.

The property owning taxpayer of San Mateo county, owning property assessed at $3000 had a reduction estimated at $36.60 on his county tax bill this year, because of the shift of school costs from the counties of the state, according to a study recently completed by California Taxpayers' association.

Mrs. Albert Parmisano entertained last Thursday evening, the following being her guests: Mr. and Mrs. P. Benassini, Mrs. F. Olivieri, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Benedetti, Miss Inez Benassini, Miss Rita Benassini, Miss Rene Olivieri and Camille Olivieri.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO IN THE RECORD

Friday, Jaan. 11, 1929—With an entering class of thirty from the Woodrow Wilson grammar school yesterday, the enrollment of the Jefferson Union High school reached the highest mark in its history —329. This is already 64 more than the total enrollment for last year.

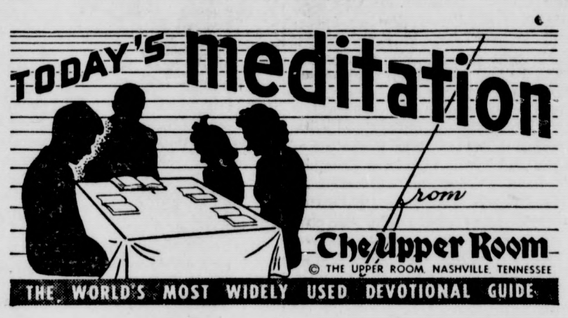
Principal James Ferguson complimented the incoming class on the good record it had made in the grammar school and the excellent recommendation which the members had received from Prof. W. J. Savage, superintendent of the grammar schools.

Daly City people are to have the privilege of listening to a woman preach a sermon from the pulpit of the Methodist church next Sunday evening. Though this will be an unusual occurrence for the Daly City church, it will not be anything unusual for its speaker, who has spoken from the pulpits of hundreds of Methodist churches throughout the nation.

The speaker will be Mrs. Woodall, the wife of the pastor of the Methodist church.

Appealing to the San Mateo county board of supervisors to "clean up its list of soft drink permits," District Attorney Franklin Swart told the supervisors last Monday that bootleg joints and "speakeasies" are springing up like mushrooms throughout San Mateo county.

"I know of many so-called 'soft drink establishments' operating as bootleg joints, that should be closed up immediately," he said.



THURSDAY, JANUARY 7

Lord, teach us to pray. Luke 11:1.) Read Philippians 4:4-8.

Just as oxygen is necessary to keep us alive physically, so is prayer necessary to keep us alive spiritually. It is the channel through which we commune with God, and through which His power flows into our lives.

After the early Christians had prayed in the upper room for several days, they were empowered with courage to go out and witness for Christ in a pagan world. They became fruit-bearing Christians.

Without prayer, we are powerless in the realm of Christian service, but through prayer God makes available to us the very resources of heaven.

Jesus, the Son of God, prayed often and always in the face of life's crises. He prayed all night before He chose the twelve disciples.

If He needed to pray, how much more we need to exercise this privilege to seek God's power through prayer! As the poet says: "Prayer is the Christian's vital breath."

PRAYER

Our Father, help us to realize our need of Thee as we face the responsibilities of life. Teach us to pray. Be with us along the way. Use us in Thy service. In the name of Him who taught us to pray, "Our Father who are in heaven . . . Amen."

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

"Prayer is the Christian's vital breath."

Safety News From Your Local Police

SLOGAN FOR DRIVERS

"Children may dare, drivers beware." This safety slogan summarizes the best possible advice for motorists.

Youngsters intent on a football, a foot race or a playful dog, never seem to have time to watch for traffic hazards. Their personal problems seem too important to them.

Now that classes have resumed, motorists must accept added responsibility for the protection of children.

Parents are urged to review and re-emphasize pedestrian and bicycle safety rules so that youngsters will know their own part of the job.

Last year 4500 children under 15 years were killed in traffic accidents, with the greatest increase recorded during the last four months of the year and during the afternoon and early evening hours.

While we appreciate that children sometimes disregard danger signals, every motorist must remember that one moment of forgetfulness can result in a fatal collision.

Since children may dare, drivers must beware.

Accident Report

(Dec. 27 to Jan. 3)
Total: Eight accidents.
Breakdown: Six auto-property; two auto-injury; two injured.

UNCLE SAM WILL CALL COMPULSORY ALIEN REGISTER

Uncle Sam will again take up a hitch in his security safety-belt at the outset of 1954 by calling for compulsory registration of all aliens on an annual basis as provided by the Immigration and Nationality Act, and at the same time assist all aliens in the processing of their problems.

The law requires all aliens who are in the United States on January 1, 1954, to report his or her current address to the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization within the 30 day period between January 1 to 31, 1954.

Nationwide census of aliens, irrespective of status, sex or age, will be accomplished through the far-flung facilities of the Post Office Department, it was announced by San Francisco's Postmaster, John F. Fixa.

Every non-Citizen who is within the United States on the first day of January of each year shall, within 30 days following such date report his address to the Commissioner, Immigration and Naturalization Service, and shall furnish such additional information as may be required by regulations.

Any alien who is temporarily absent from the United States during the reporting period, shall report his address within 10 days after his return to the United States.

Any alien who wilfully or inexcusably fails to report as required is liable to be taken into custody and deported. In addition, imprisonment or fines may be levied before deportation. Postmaster Fixa stated that Alien address report cards will be available at all branches of the San Francisco Post Office on January 1, 1954.

Bruce G. Barber, District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service of the Department of Justice, who will collaborate with Postmaster Fixa, emphasized that the compilation of Annual Address Report forms from all aliens is part of a decentralization process aimed at rendering speedier and more efficient service to registrants according to districts. This procedure, Mr. Barber said, will serve to expedite benefits to aliens, such as issuance of re-entry permits, petitions for naturalization certificates and cases involving marriage with American citizens.

The March of Dimes has paid for 4,145 scholarship and fellowship awards for medical study and research during the past 16 years.

Ridgely Cummings Reports

HOLLYWOOD STREET SCENE

Recently I wrote a short story called "Somebody's Dying" and shipped it off to Esquire magazine, where it is still reposing on the desk of some office boy-manuscript reader I suppose, for it hasn't come back yet.

Maybe you'll be able to read it in Esquire, and I hope that happens, but the odds are it will come back with a rejection slip and I'll send it out again somewhere else. Anyway it is a grim thing, but nothing like the incident I plan to describe in a moment, except that somebody died in this one too.

Die Every Minute

Every minute all over the world somebody's dying but it seems as if in Hollywood they pick out the most miserable ways.

This area where I live has the lowest birth rate and the highest death rate of any part of Southern California. And that's not just my idea. A year ago I clipped that information out of a newspaper, based on a Health Department report, and although I don't believe the printed word is infallible (I wrote too many of them myself) it stands to reason that the Health Department, which collects statistics on dying (just as the Ministry of Love in Orwell's "1984" was mostly concerned with torture) ought to know the figures.

So the other day I saw one more statistic added to the score.

Call Him "Horatio"

It was ten o'clock of a Tuesday morning. One of my friends drives a truck for a catering service. He's an actor and just does this while he's waiting for his big break. I could mention his name and the name of the catering service but if I did and it got back to the boss he might get fired. So I'll call him Horatio.

Horatio works from 9:30 to 3, a part time job at part time pay, but with all he can eat during that time and tips if he happens to make a stop at one of the wealthy homes. He loads up the truck at 9:30 and leaves about ten to make deliveries, comes back after lunch, makes another trip and he's off to hit the casting offices.

Hollywood's Full Of 'Em

Like I said, he gets small dough, a buck an hour, five dollars a day, not enough to live on even with a free meal thrown in. But Hollywood is full of people living on a pittance, waiting, waiting . . .

Well, this morning I had to get out to Beverly Hills. Since I don't have a car and knew that Horatio would drive me anywhere I wanted to go just to have company in his truck, I met him in the catering parking lot.

We loaded up and at ten o'clock we were driving out Hollywood boulevard, me with my mouth full of cream puffs, when Horatio jammed on the brakes.

"Hey," he said. "Look at that crowd. Maybe there's a story for you."

He pulled the car to the curb. We were right in front of the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel, one of the swankiest establishments in the area.

Crowd Was Gaping

An ambulance and two police cars were parked in the middle of the street. The crowd was gaping upward, on their faces the open-mouthed, vacant expression that heralds tragedy.

I leaped out and mingled with the bystanders, eyes and ears open. The newsboy on the corner was telling all who would listen that he had seen the body fall.

"I couldn't tell if it was a man or a woman," he said. "I just happened to look up and there it was in the air. It made an awful noise when it hit. Ugh."

"I saw it too," said an elderly pedestrian. "It was an old man. Terrible."

"I think it was a middle-aged lady," said a grandmotherly type woman in the crowd.

Cheaper Than Rent

Others joined in, murmuring their horror, inventing details, fascinated by their own imaginations. One irrepressible wag shocked the crowd by remarking, "Well, it's cheaper than paying rent."

Police came to chase the crowd away, saying stolidly, "All right, break it up, break it up now," pushing the reluctant ones before them. Judging from their stern, irritable, self-indulgent faces I didn't think they knew any details. And although I have a correspondent's job I knew a suicide was too common an event for me to send up by wire. Besides, Horatio was parked in a red bus stop and I didn't want him to get a ticket. I went back to the truck.

The cream puff didn't taste very good and I threw it out the window. Moratio urged me to try a turkey sandwich, for he always loaded more than he had to deliver, but I said no, I didn't feel hungry.

Incident Faded

By the time we got to Beverly Hills however the incident had faded somewhat. Then I got busy and forgot about it until I looked at the evening papers when I got back.

There the story was recited in detail. The woman who leaped to her death was a 42-year-old school teacher. She had lived in the hotel since the war and employees said that recently she had seemed moody and depressed.

Reconstructing the last moments in her life, detectives told reporters that she had first tried to kill herself by slashing her wrists five or six times. When death failed to come, the distraught woman had bandaged her wrists and taken the elevator from the third floor, where she lived, to the 12th, top floor. From there she had climbed to the roof and threw herself head-first over the 13th-story parapet.

Hollywood is full of people like her, lonely, unhappy people. It is also the home of the beautiful smiling people we see on the screen, the people some of us envy. I don't envy them, for too often they too, who seem to have everything, find the going too rough and take the hard way out.

But I'll save the moralizing for another day. There you have it, a Hollywood street scene.

CATHOLIC WOMEN COUNTY COUNCIL MEET ON TUESDAY

New Skyscraper Started In S.F.

Driving of 415 steel piles as a preliminary to erection of a 25-story structure at Montgomery and Sutter streets by the Equitable Life Assurance Society is rattling downtown San Francisco office buildings.

The main building will be ten stories high with a 15-story tower above. On top of the tower an auditorium will be located for use by all tenants, expected to be mostly insurance firms. Equitable announced it will require at least two floors for its own offices.

Equitable purchased the 161 by 121 foot lot, former site of the famous old Occidental Hotel, for $1,750,000 three years ago. It was announced the new building will cost $12,500,000.

YOUR NEIGHBORS AND MINE

By Betty Brush

Hello Neighbors:

The beginning of a new year is always nice. One always has such great plans and a whole year to carry them out in. This is the first column of the new year and here's hoping it has something of interest to all. On thing nice to look forward to is the many new friends and neighbors one will meet during the coming year. Time as always goes on so let's see what has happened during the past week.

MR. and MRS. EARL COCHRANE of School street started the year off real well. They celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary on January 1st. They really wanted to be sure their wedding started the year so they were married at midnight just five years ago. Congratulations folks.

There were still some last minute birthdays as the old year closed. One birthday at a time around the holidays is generally enough but not for the BROOKS family of Los Banos avenue. NOEL BROOKS celebrated his 6th birthday on the 27th and his little brother NICKIE chose the 28th for his 1st birthday. Happy birthday kids.

The whist held by Hillcrest Circle No. 143 U.A.O.D. last week was more than a success. Of course this was to be expected with MAMA LOMBARD the chairman of this event. Mama would like to thank everyone who helped her and especially those girls who were not on the committee who stayed and punched. Her thanks to the three little sisters — DOLLY BRUSH, ELEANOR CAMERON and OLIE BEDELL. The whist was run in it's usual efficient way by MRS. CLARA POKET and a good time plus good prizes was had by all.

Another Daly City couple chose to start their life together on the first day of the year. Congratulations are extended to MR. and MRS. CLARENCE JOHNSON of Wilson street on their anniversary. Many more years of happiness is wished them by all their many friends and neighbors.

Items of Interest

Our bank is never going to be quite the same again. Your neighbor and mine. LEILA BROWN, after completing 25 years service with the Bank of America, is retiring. Fact is she is now retired as of Dec. 31, 1953. What Leila will do now is not the question. What will the bank be without her courtesy, smile, personality and warm cheery greeting for one and all is the question in the minds of all the folks. We will miss you, Leila, and that is for sure.

The O.L.P.H. CHOIR went Christmas caroling last Wednesday night. Headed by REGINA WARCHOT the following ladies and fellows started out to give their own type of season's greetings to some of the neighbors. There were two cars of them, one driven by Regina and one by JOHN MULLER. The following were those whose gift was greatly appreciated by all who heard them—Barbara Valentino, Barbara Dreamele, Millie Valdez, Dorothy Stewart, Loretta Warchot, Mrs. Hazel Sullivan, Edwin Larson, Paul Guaraglia, Art Gamon and Bill Schwartz. Thanks again folks, it's too bad we can't hear more of you.

Sadness came to the family of one of Daly City's long time residents last week. MR. EDWARD A. OLSON, who was a beloved husband, father and grandfather passed away on December 31st. He was a member of the Daly City fire department, Veteran Fireman's association, and an employee of the Daly City water department for many years. The sympathies of all the neighbors are extended to his family on the loss of a fine man and good neighbors.

New Year's Eve was really celebrated in fashion by one family last week. Of course they had good reason. MR. and MRS. GUS MONZANI were greeted by all the members of the BOSKEY family plus a host of their friends who all came to greet them on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. We would like to wish them many more years of happiness.

This is what happens when one is a grandma. MRS. WINNIE EVANS of San Diego avenue had a birthday on December 30th. Did she dress up and go out? She did not. Winnie spent the occasion baby-sitting. Nevertheless she wasn't forgotten as all her family arrived to wish her the best and Winnie would rather baby-sit anyway.

Servicemen

A surprise arrival home for the holidays was PVT. RICHARD FITZGERALD of Fort Ord. He was home for a very short time but it was well worth it to see his brand new six week's old baby and the rest of his family. He expects a week's leave soon and will have more time then to say hello to all his many friends and neighbors who missed seeing him at Christmas.

T. SGT. DALE PAISLEY of the U. S. Air Forces was home for the holidays too. He was on leave from Parks Air Force Base Hospital where he has been since he was flown home from Iceland awhile back. As Dale will be in the hospital to which he has returned for quite awhile yet, his wife and children came from [illegible] this party which is open to all, will go to the Scholarship Fund sponsored by the organization. This is a worthy cause and the child sponsored for a college education does not necessarily have to be a relation of a Druid.

DENTALMAN GEORGE T. EVANS of the U. S. Navy is in for congratulations. He is now Petty Officer 3rd class. He too was home for the holidays as the ship to which he is attached, the U. S. S. Gen. J. C. Breckenridge, arrived home from Japan, Korea, and Okinowa just in time. He was greeted at the pier by a very happy mother, Winnie Evans and an excited sister.

Had a card and letter from A/3c EDWARD F. HARPER last week. He finally was able to send his new address and would like to hear from any and all his friends who can find the time to write. Eddie is with the Hq. Sqd. Sect. 3700—Base Hospital at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. He has the job of typing up all the admittance records of the medical history of the new men. Don't loose the shot records Eddie or you will be the one to get shot and not with a needle either.

As is usual the folks of our town opened their homes and hearts to the stranger at the door during the holidays. The EVANS family really know just how much real pleasure is derived by this gesture of friendliness. In addition to their own family at Christmas they welcomed Medical Corpsman DON ROBINSON of North Carolina and Medical Corpsman BUCKLEY SPEIGLE of Tennessee. In all years to come these boys will always remember the Christmas spent in our town. They never forget—I know.

Medical Corpsman JOHN MULLER of Los Angeles was another of the lonesome boys who spent their holidays at the home of one of the neighbors. He was so close to home but still so far away. What better place to be though than in a friendly town like ours.

News and Views

New Years Eve was the scene of an open house for fifty people held at the home of WILFORD J. MILLER. All the HOBBS family plus many of the neighbors and a host of friends had the time of their lives at this affair.

MR. and MRS. GEORGE SMITH and the three little Smiths—SKIPPER, MICHEAL, and TINA came all the way from Massilon, Ohio, to spend the holidays with MR. and MRS. LESLEY HILL. Grandma Grace really was happy to see her daughter Ethel, son-in-law George and their children. They will be here until January 12 when they leave for home.

Christmas was really an event in the HILL home this year. For the first time in many years they had all their family at home at the same time. In addition to the Smith's they greeted MR. and MRS. H. W. CARGAIN and daughter LINDA. Mrs. Cargain is the former Hazel Hill and known to many in our town.

On Christmas Eve MR. and MRS. FAZENDEN, the former Lorraine Hill, arrived to spend the holidays together with all the members of the Hill family. This really was a happy reunion for them all and made up for many of the years when they couldn't be together.

A happy birthday is wished by all the neighbors to MRS. DOROTHEA BRUSH of Niantic avenue. She celebrated her birthday Tuesday, January 5th, and was hostess to her family and many friends on this occasion.

Hillcrest Circle No. 143 would like to invite all it's friends to a supper party to be held after the close of their regular meeting on January 11th. The proceeds from this party, which is open to all, will go to the Scholarship Fund sponsored by the organization. This is a worthy cause and the child sponsored for a college education does not necessarily have to be a relation of a Druid.

Excitement in the household of MR. and MRS. LEO LEMON of Los Olivos avenue last week—they became grandparents again when son LEO's wife presented them with a baby girl. LINDA MARIE came into the world December 31st at 12:42 p.m., just in time to provide father with a nice exemption for the year. She weighed 7 lbs. 9 ozs. and mother ANITA (GULL) LEMON who will be remembered by many who attend Jeff, is doing fine. Papa Lemon was too excited to talk but at last reports was expected to survive.

Among the many youngsters who attended New Year's Eve parties was MISS SHARON CASAD who journeyed all the way to Sharp Park for an evening of fun and frolic.

Starting the year off in style with a birthday is another one of the neighbors. MRS. HILDA BLACKBURN, a neighbor whom it is not only a pleasure to know but to meet and talk to, celebrated her birthday on January 3rd. Her family and all her many friends wish her much happiness not only on this day but during the coming year.

Well, neighbors, this column like many a good new year's resolution has come to an end. Some resolutions lasted just long enough for the confetti to be swept up, some will last a little longer. This column, I hope, will last longer yet. Remember I just get the news out for you. It is up to you not only to create the news but to get it to me. It really is fun hearing from each and everyone of you and I'll be listening for PL. 5-6482 to ring. Until next week then—"Bye Now.

It has been estimated 85,000,000 Americans are covered by hospital insurance.

PERSHING PTA ENJOYS "COMMUNITY" PROGRAM

At a very well-attended evening meeting January 5, members of the General Pershing PTA enjoyed an excellent program on "Community Cooperation."

Later Mrs. Louine Bostwick, curriculum coordinator, explained the experimental 'staggered" reading program now being tried in the first grade at General Pershing school. In order to provide the maximum individual reading instruction, the classes have been "staggered." One meets from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m., the other from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. In this way the children have all of their classes together except for the two separate hours of reading help.

Mrs. Bostwick stressed the importance of send the "ten o'clockers" to school between 10 and 10:10 a.m. because the playground cannot be supervised when classes are in session. "For the same reason," she said, "those excused at two o'clock should be urged not to loiter on the playground."

Speakers Presented

During the scheduled program, Mrs. Robert J. Keith, vice president, presented the following speakers from various departments of Daly City:

Mrs. Rosamond Plummer, children's librarian of the public library, who spoke on Daly City library facilities, with particular emphasis on those for children.

James Mason, recreation director, who outlined the recreation facilities and program offered by the Daly City recreation department. Mason spoke also of the growth of the department in this city and of similar departments over the state.

Police Chief Roland Petrocchi, who stressed crime and corruption control, with special attention to the average citizen's function in such control by taking part in civic affairs, and especially by accepting and understanding jury duty.

Inspector Henry Sundermann of the police department outlined the program of the traffic division in instructing the teen-age driver "before the accident happens."

Juvenile Problem

Lt. Roy Beecher of the Police Department juvenile division mentioned briefly some of the aspects of the juvenile delinquency problem: interpretation of statistics, the detention home and its role, the decrease in 1953 juvenile arrests in this community as compared with such arrests in 1952.

Fire Chief Elmer Kennedy gave an informative picture of the growth of the local fire department from a volunteer group to the present-day well-equipped department. Kennedy's talk was jam-packed with facts and figures to back up his statements.

City Administrator Dan Andersen summarized his job and the work of some of the special commissions such as the library commission. Andersen brought out the fact that in appointing members of these commissions an effort is made to secure geographical representation of the various sections of the community.

Scouts Introduced

Before the city officials spoke, Mrs. Harvey Smith, Girl Scout neighborhood chairman, introduced the Girl Scout Brownie leaders: Mesdames Eleanor Bynell, Loretta Sturdevant, Olga Scaroni, Dorothy Carr, and the Girl Scout leaders: Mesdames Marie Wrench, Bernice Hockaday, Audrey Soloday, Mary Larsen. Representative Brownies and Girl Scouts from each scout class exhibited some of their work.

To represent the Cub Scouts, Den 1, Pack 62, put on a skit, "Too Many Girl Friends." They closed with the Cub Scout promise and pledge. Mrs. John Calvin, den mother, coached the boys, assisted by Mrs. Carl Curry.

During the business meeting a nominating committee was selected: Mesdames Anne Eason, chairman; Roberta Schmalle, Velma Yule, Alice Bishop, Maxine Naylor.

Ted Weiden and Mrs. Maxine Naylor volunteered to attend the caucus committee meeting of the voters of the Daly City school district for the nomination of school board trustees.

After additional mothers volunteered for the coming March of Dimes, Weiden, whose small daughter was a very recent polio victim, made a $25 contribution to the March of Dimes.

Since the Mothers' March falls on the scheduled February PTA meeting date, the meeting will be held February 3.

THE SPEED LAW

Under California law you must never drive faster than conditions warrant is safe, warns the California State Automobile Association.

SAFE SPEED RECORD

Motorists who drive at safe speeds may drive an automobile for years without having an accident, says the California State Automobile Association.

WINTER SPORTS

Motorists in winter sports regions should not turn on the heating systems of their cars when parked near a bank or drift of snow. The California State Automobile Association says the snow around the car may pocket the deadly carbon monoxide, which is part of the exhaust gas, and produce serious effects for those inside the car.

FACTS FOR PEDESTRIANS

The number of pedestrians killed in traffic accidents is decreasing, according to the California State Automobile Association, but could be reduced much further if those who walk on streets and highways would stop crossing between intersections, or against the signal at intersections, or diagonally. Comparatively few persons cross between intersections in cities, the CSAA points out, yet that fault results in 35 per cent of all urban pedestrian deaths.

At this time the James L. Snell PTA wishes to thank its representatives for their help at the Christmas party at the Serra Theater, sponsored by the Daly City recreation commission. They are Mesdames George Redmond, James Buchanan, Robert Clark, Merald Hawkins and Ernest Hageman.

LOCAL WELFARE WORKERS TAKE PART IN WELCOMING VOLUNTEER DIRECTOR

Local social welfare workers were among the more than two hundred county welfare workers who gathered recently at the offices of the newly formed Volunteer Bureau of San Mateo to welcome Margaret Reuttell, new director of the Bureau. They have since been conferring with her to determine local needs which the Bureau will be able to fill.

The Bureau, to operate as a department of the Community Council, will coordinate the recruitment and placement of men and women volunteer helpers in the many hospitals, clinics, youth aid groups, and health and welfare organizations throughout the county.

The actual recruiting and placement of volunteer workers will not begin until February but Miss Ruettell will spend two busy months compiling requests for volunteers from the various social agencies, studying future volunteer needs, establishing selection standards for workers, and setting up the complex cross-reference systems necessary to the future task.

Miss Ruettell comes to this post with an impressive background in public service work. A graduate of Mills College, she served until 1944 as Director of the Social Service Exchange for the San Francisco Community Chest. In 1944 she went to France with the Civilian War Relief Program, and in this capacity served as liaison officer between the American Red Cross, the French Red Cross and the American Army to help care for refugees.

After outstanding performance on that job, Miss Ruettell was then loaned by the American Red Cross to the American Joint Distribution Committee to set up in Paris a Social Service Exchange for the coordination of relief work of all health and welfare agencies then operating in France. This past summer Miss Ruettell went to Europe to be honored at ceremonies at which the now enormously expanded Social Service Exchange she founded seven years previously passed completely into French hands for continued operation.

Mrs. Gaynor Langsdorf of San Mateo is chairman of the Advisory Committee and members of the Advisory Committee include Mrs. Ralph Hanna of Millbrae and Mrs. C. C. Blalock of South San Francisco.

Call For Cookies At SM Blood Bank

Cookies are needed at the San Mateo county blood bank for serving as refreshments to blood donors, it was reported today by Robert Tarver, member of the organization.

Several organizations are aiding with this project, but with the increased use of blood in local hospitals, more are needed. All Parent-Teacher units in the 17th district supply cookies to the bank on a regular basis, the most recent being the Burlingame High school PTA, which arranged for their cookies to be baked by the home economics class at the high school.

Daughters of the members of B'nai Brith have also made it a project and bake cookies regularly every two weeks.

Members of many of the Girl Scouts troops throughout the county have donated cookies from time to time which they themselves baked and for which they received awards.

Other organizations are invited to participate in the program and make arrangements by calling the blood bank, DI. 3-1424.

Tarver pointed out that people who may not be able to give blood for some reason, enjoy helping out by supplying cookies, thereby aiding the operation of the blood bank.

The Northern California Association of Public School Cosmetology Teachers will hold its quarterly meeting at San Mateo Junior college on Saturday, January 9. Representing the college as hostess to the group will be Mrs. Lorraine Bush, San Mateo Junior College teacher of cosmetology.

The conference will begin at 10:30 in the cosmetology department at Coyote Point when Dr. Elon E. Hildreth, President of the college, will welcome the members. The program will include discussions of new techniques of teaching cosmetology and of new rulings by the State Department of Cosmetology. An informal luncheon will conclude the conference.

Junior college teachers registered for attendance are Ruby Hobbs, Jessie Peterson from Oakland Trade Technical, Frances Gehrig, Louise Erickson from Contra Costa, Yuba Bollinger, Ethelyn Mason from Stockton, Blanche Breech, Sacramento, and Mable Ross, Vallejo.

As part of the enlarged vocational training for women at San Mateo Junior college the department of cosmetology was added to the curriculum in the fall of 1953. Students now enrolled will complete their freshman training hours at the close of this semester in January. Twenty applicants on the waiting list will be admitted to classes in February when a second teacher will be added to the staff. Other persons interested in enrolling in cosmetology may do so on registration day, February 1, at the college.

Jeffs, Defending Champs, Open Tuesday Against SM

BEARCAT FIVE RATED BEST IN PAL --- EXCEPT FOR HOMETOWN VARSITY CLUB

With a fair-to-middling practice game record of six wins, eight losses, Jefferson high school's varsity gets the acid test Tuesday when they meet San Mateo here for the first Peninsula Athletic league contest.

The Indians will be facing a well-rounded squad that has been tabbed by some as top contender for the league title.

Although Jefferson has shown a fairly strong offensive machine to date, averaging more than 50 points a game, they will find themselves up against an equally potent point-making aggregation.

Trio of Threats

Main threats to the Jeffs will be Bucky Kahler, 6' 1" forward and All-PAL second string last year; Guard Bob Stallman, All-PAL lightweight transfer from Lincoln high of San Jose, and Jack Finney, 6'4" center who won all-PAL first string honors with the Mateo 30s last year.

Coach Mike Orlich, whose Jeffs have been picked in some quarters to cop the championship for the second straight year, may alter his starting line-up a bit for Tuesday's contest.

Yates May Get Nod

Wesley Yates, a fast-improving pivot-man, may win starting honors from John Madden, while Jim Honeywell is an outside chance to start at guard instead of Tom Costello. Costello, although a standout performer last year, takes a while to round into shape, according to Orlich.

Delbon Pacemaker

Definite starters will be Don Delbon, All-PAL forward and leading scorer for the Jeffs with 180 points in 14 games; Ray Rosa, towering forward; and Wally Honeywell, dependable guard.

The Mateans won't hold any advantage off the backboards, with both teams about even on that score.

"It'll Be Close"

Orlich figures it'll be a "good close game," but added that he "expected to win."

Lightweight Coach Tony Giammona will floor his regular starting line-up of Bill Storch and Al Lagomarsino at forwards, Ken Duncan at center, and Bill Curtis and Rich Watso at guards.

In the Jeffs outing last week against Mission high, the San Francisco team avenged an earlier loss at the hands of the local varsity, by topping Orlich's crew, 50 to 37.

However, vacation time was held partially responsible for the trouncing.

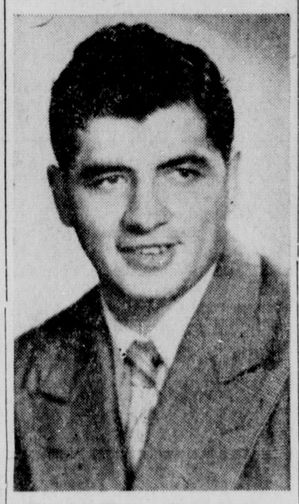
Time Mix-up

Due to a time mix-up, Delbon was the only varsity player who showed in time for the game. The Jeffs played the entire first quarter minus services of four regulars.

When the first team arrived the score was already 9 to 3 in favor of Mission, and, without benefit of warm-ups, the Jeffs slipped behind, 25 to 12, at half-time.

It was an even contest throughout the second half, with each team getting 25 markers. Delbon led local scoring with nine points.

The Mission gang thus added another victory to their lengthy list, their only loss being to Jefferson in a practice game held earlier this season.



Coach Tony Giammona
... His 30s Surprise

30s Come Through

The Jeff 30s came through in good shape, topping the highly-touted Mission team, 25 to 19. It was a slow-paced game, with both sides delaying the ball, waiting for sure-fire scoring opportunities.

Lagomarsino set the pace in scoring with 11 markers.

The win gave the little Indians a 6-7 mark to carry into Tuesday's league tilt.

The league opener will begin at 3:15 in the Jefferson gym, with the varsity contest scheduled first.

Sarto Midgets Vie For League Crown

Joe Millett twirled a three-hitter for the Sarto Midgets in a recent league contest to lead the local nine to a 12-1 victory over Excelsior Playground.

Billie Whalen banged out three hits in five times at bat to pace the winners in that department.

Sunday the Midgets topped West Portal Midgets, 8 to 2, in a practice contest. Larry Kane pitched three-hit ball for the Sarto team. Whalen, getting three for four, again led his team in hitting.

Local Man Scores On Steelhead Trip

Alvin Muylaert, 18 Abbott avenue, hit the jackpot last weekend in a steelhead outing at the Russian river.

Muylaert, who has fished the stream during the past ten years has been blanked every year until Saturday and Sunday of last weekend, when he nailed two beauties, one 8¾ lbs., the other a whopping 12½ pounder.

He took the seagoing rainbow on a cherry bobber, a lure that has gained increasing reputation on the River during this season. Both of the fish were taken near Monte Rio.

According to Mrs. Muylaert, who, incidentally, failed to connect, it was one of the best weeks on the river in many a season. The couple reported seeing one 19-pounder taken.

Accompanying the Muylaerts on the fishing trip were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Muylaert, 203 Woodrow street.

PAUL'S DROP THREE IN BRENTWOOD PLAY

The Daly City-Colma Bowling league resumed Tuesday after the Christmas holidays with Paul's Flowers still maintaining a teetering position on the top spot.

Paul's took a three-game drubbing from Lombardi's Auto service, but managed to keep a teetering hold on first place with a 27-18 mark. Thur Meat Co. is closing in, with a 26-19 record after Tuesday's play at Brentwood.

Only other clean sweep of the evening was accomplished by Vince & Fred's, the victims being the unfortunate Brisbane Lions.

Herm Kalinin of Ralph's Cleaners swiped high individual game and series with fat scores of 260 and 614, respectively.

Carlos Pizzeria copped high team game with a 969 tally and high team series with a total of 2753.

Gators Open League Action Here Tonight

San Francisco State's cagers, anxious to forget the practice season, start playing for keeps this weekend as they host Nevada tonight (Friday) and tomorrow (Saturday) night in the first action of the reorganized Far Western League.

Coach Dan Farmer used the pre-conference season for experimental purposes and he feels he has jellied his team sufficiently for the league chase. The loss of center Bob Liebe because of the transfer rule forced Farmer to juggle his squad.

The Gators have a 3-8 record while Nevada has a 2-5 mark.

Farmer will start Don Nelson and John Burton at the guards; Al Desin at center and Glyden Mayfield and freshman Henry Fort at forwards. Desin has scored 155 points in 11 games for a 14.1 average. Mayfield is the second top scorer with 125, while Fort has 91 and Burton is fourth with 79.

Nevada has six lettermen returning, including center Reg De Paoli and senior forward Bob Wilcox. The Nevadans also have frosh forward Chuck Handley, an all-state choice from Las Vegas.

The varsity games start at 8:15. The State J. V. cagers play the Marion Fountain team Friday night and Livermore High Saturday night in 6:15 preliminaries.

Deer Kill Up

SACRAMENTO — The second best deer hunting season in the 27 years the State has been keeping records has been scored by California hunters with a total take of 58,992 bucks in 1953.

The figure is 16 per cent over the 1952 kill, but is 9 per cent below the all-time high of 64,619 set in 1951.

An estimated 370,000 hunters bought deer hunting tags during the year. About 1,000 bow and arrow hunters accounted for a kill of 93 bucks—a new archery record.

The Department of Fish and Game reports that 45 of the State's 57 deer-producing counties showed a kill greater than the preceding year.

$500 "Low" Fine

TERMINAL ISLAND — Calling the maximum fine of $500 "ridiculously small" Judge Bernard Lawler of San Pedro levied that sum recently on Commercial Fisherman Len Reabarn of La Jolla for delivering 12 tons of undersized tuna to the Star-Kist cannery on Terminal Island.

Judge Lawler pointed out that the cannery had paid Reabarn $3,840 for his illegal fish.

Recover Salmon Eggs

TRUCKEE — California Department of Fish and Game crews from the Tahoe hatchery recovered a total of 121,000 kokanee salmon eggs from wild fish in Donner Lake during the month of November. The eggs will be hatched and the fish planted next year in suitable local waters.

Sardine Catch Paltry

TERMINAL ISLAND—California's once-great sardine industry, which a few years ago was making annual catches of hundreds of thousands of tons, this year could deliver only 1,743 tons to the canneries during the entire three-month season.

Nearly all of these fish were taken in the Southern California area during October, the last month of the season. No fish were reported in August, and September saw only a few small catches recorded in Monterey.

Monthly statements, from processors, compiled by the marine fisheries branch of the California Department of Fish and Game, show that 1,734 tons of the fish were used for canning, and the remaining 9 tons went for pet food and other uses. Reduction of whole sardines—the only phase of the industry over which the Fish and Game Commission has control—was banned by the Commission this season.

Volunteer Wardens

SAN FRANCISCO — Volunteer reserve wardens of the San Francisco Department of Fish and Game region put in 509 unpaid man hours during the month of November.

Reserve Patrol Captain Louis Bianchini reported that his unit spent a total of 77 hours on patrol boats and covered 4,800 ground miles in its mission of helping regular wardens enforce state fish and game laws.

Boat Fishing Off

TERMINAL ISLAND — Except for the salmon fishing off San Francisco and Eureka, California's party boat fishing activities fell off sharply during September, as 50,000 anglers, compared with August's 115,000, went out for the last big month of the ocean season.

The total sports boat catch for the month was 300,000 fish, according to California Department of Fish and Game figures.

Salmon fishermen at San Francisco averaged better than a fish and-a-half per man, with 10,850 anglers getting 17,800 salmon. In the Eureka area, 850 anglers caught 1,300 of the big fish. The September salmon catch was 19,850, compared with 16,700 scored in August.

In southern California the jack mackerel was the backbone of the sports fishery, with a party boat catch of 21,500 reported. Barracuda landings dropped from 64,000 in August to 17,500 in September.

Kelp bass catches fell from 180,000 in the previous month to 93,700, while only 380 yellowtail were caught from the August score of 1,500.

Special Deer Kill

FRESNO—The 444 hunters who took part in the Barton's Flat special deer hunting season in November scored a kill of 250 deer, including 117 does, during the 13-day controlled hunt, the Department of Fish and Game reports.

Salmon Hitch-Hike

REDDING—A thousand salmon hitch-hiking their way up the Sacramento river in this year's egg-laying migration got a 25-mile lift recently from trucks of the California Department of Fish and Game.

The fish were taken across country from a crowded pool below impassable Keswick Dam to the upper reaches of Clear Creek, near Redding. There, 35 miles of vacant spawning beds were waiting.

The operation was conceived by the Department and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service to take care of some of this year's heavy run of salmon, which were piling up below the dam. Ordinarily the federal agency's Coleman hatchery—built especially to compensate for the dam's blocking of the natural salmon run—would take care of them. But this year there were too many salmon.

Clear Creek has miles of natural spawning beds, but no way for the fish to get to them. A fishway is being designed to allow salmon to jump over the McCormick-Saeltzer Dam that blocks the stream, but is not ready for this year's migration.

If salmon were put in above the dam to spawn, Department biologists reasoned, the young fingerlings could make their way back down to the ocean during high without the fishway. In three or four years when these young salmon matured and their "homing instinct" brought them back to do their own egg-laying in Clear Creek, the new fishway would be in place and they could go right on over.

Arrangements were made with the Federal hatchery officials, and the big spawners were put in the stream.

Clear Creek should now have a ready-made salmon run, the biologists say, at least several years before one could otherwise be expected.

Better Business Bureau Opens In New Offices

New offices were opened by the Better Business Bureau on December 31 at 414 Mason street, fifth floor, Native Sons building. The Bureau telephone numbers will be the same as in the old location on Sutter street.

The move was occasioned by an increase in rent which the Bureau could not meet under its limited budget.

During the past 16 years the March of Dimes has provided $20,500,000 for polio research and $18,900,000 for public and professional education.

MACHINE SHORTHAND COURSE OFFERED FOR FIRST TIME

For the first time in San Mateo and San Francisco counties, instruction in machine shorthand will begin Thursday, January 14, at South San Francisco Evening high school, starting at 7 p.m. in room B-21.

The stenotype is a shorthand typewriter using basic English letters only and weighs about 4 pounds. The 22 keys can be struck simultaneously, writing words and phrases with each stroke. Speech can be recorded accurately up to 382 words per minute, it is reported.

Used extensively by court reporters and secretaries doing considerable dictation work, stenotype instruction was obtainable only by private means until recently.

S.F. To Seek Army Lands

San Francisco has initiated action to acquire presently unused portions of the Presidio and Fort Funston for badly needed residential development.

Availability of Fort Funston lands was disclosed after the Veterans Administration eliminated the site as suitable for construction of a $25,000,000 neuropsychiatric hospital because the San Francisco Bay area has been designated a "critical target area."

ICE ON BRIDGES

Winter drivers are warned by the California State Automobile Association to be wary when crossing bridges. Icy spots form more quickly on bridges than elsewhere because wind can get at both top and bottom of the bridge floor and chill it quickly. Such spots present a definite skid hazard.

Parking Bans Asked In S.F.

Supervisor Marvin Lewis has proposed a complete ban on curb parking in downtown San Francisco and elimination of left turns at all intersections except those which conform with normal flow of traffic on one-way streets.

The Supervisor also called for an investigation by the police commission of the possibility of allowing angle parking in the middle of lower Market street between Steuart and Fremont streets.

The no-parking regulation would affect 1101 metered parking spaces, 174 legal but unmetered spaces and 295 spots which city engineers found illegally but commonly used for parking.

The three resolutions have been referred to the Board's police committee for study and hearings.

Harmonica Man Warms Up For Varieties Show Of 1954

CUTTING A CAPER on his talented harmonica is Ray Tankersley, left, of Broadmoor, who will appear in the City College of San Francisco's "Varieties of '54" Thursday and Friday evenings, January 14 and 15, at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium on the west campus.

HARMONICA PLAYER FROM BROADMOOR TO APPEAR IN CCSF VARIETIES OF 1954

When the associated students of the City College of San Francisco present their "Varieties of '54" Thursday and Friday, January 14 and 15, Broadmoor will have its own representative in the person of Ray Tankersley, 10 Randall Court.

Tankersley, who was formerly with Borrah Minevitch's Harmonica Rascals, famous recording artists and movie performers, is one of the feature acts in next week's billing for the Variety show.

A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Tankersley picked up harmonica playing in high school, because he had "always wanted to play a musical instrument."

He studied music on his own and finally joined the Minevitch Harmonica group. While with the "Rascals' 'he toured the country, made pictures and records before World War II.

Drafted in 1943, he spent two and a half years in the Pacific, becoming staff sergeant in the tank corps. He was among the first troops to enter Korea after V-J day.

He received his discharge in 1946, and found employment as supervisor of the tuning department in the G. P. Regan harmonica factory in Belmont, from 1946 to 1949. His experience with the "Rascals" aided materially in securing this position.

Due to the difficulty of securing experienced help the plant went out of business, and Tankersley decided to pursue the study of music leading to an AB degree and teaching credentials. Since then he has taken up woodwinds as his major instrumental endeavor, and he now plays clarinet, alto saxophone, and flute, in addition to the harmonica.

He is now a member of the teaching staff at Sherman and Clay as a harmonica instructor.

His other achievements include singing in the City College Men's Glee club and being an honor student in the Alpha Gamma Sigma, honor society.

Persons interested in hearing Tankersley and the other collegiate artists perform may obtain tickets on campus at the student bank, the student book store and at the door. Admission is $1.
